DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. A partition is claimed in claim 9, yet it is unclear how the device of claim 1 fits into the partition. For example, is claim 9 drawn to a kit or to an assembled structure?

The claim will be examined as best understood.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Claims rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Karytinios (4,918,899).

Claim 1 – Karytinios discloses a device capable of earthquake resistant mounting of a partition between a floor and a ceiling, said partition having a framework comprised of a lower rail and an upper rail that are substantially horizontal and configured to connect to substantially vertical uprights for connecting the upper and lower rails, the framework configured to fixably connect with a covering (6), the device comprising:

a slide (11) of profiled section, having arms (15) forming a substantially U-shaped section and capable of being joined to an upper rail;

a top runner (20) comprised of a rail with two side flanges (15') extending parallel to and within the arms of the U-shaped section of the slide such that the slide and the top runner are movable relative to each other in a vertical direction, the top runner capable of being fixed to the ceiling; and reversible snap-fitting means (21) between the slide and the top runner, the snap-fitting means comprised of first and second matching bosses, the first boss projecting inward respective of the flanges of the top runner, and the second boss projecting inward respective of the arms of the slide, wherein the slide and top runner are each mounted to move relative to each other in a vertical direction, and wherein the first boss is configured, in a resting position, to locate in the second boss.

The language in the preamble is considered intended use, and as such it is given only minimal patentable weight, the device of Karyinos being capable of the intended use.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

112 2nd rejection of claim 9

The amendment to the claim does not address the rejection, as dependent claim 9 drawn to a partition depends from claim 1 drawn to a earthquake-resistant mounting device.

102(b) rejection of claim 1

Regarding the argument that no “the Official Action does not expressly identify the elements of KARYTINOS alleged to anticipate a lower and upper rail”, Karyintos only need be capable of performing then intended use; the rails being part of the partition framework, which is not claimed.

Regarding the floor plates 11 anticipating the slide, the following annotated figure may help further describe the rejection:

Applicant argues that “there is no suggestion in KARYTINOS of floor plate 11 as teaching a slide” because the claim recites:

the slide movable relative to a top runner in a vertical direction;
the top runner fixed; and,
the snap-fitting means is reversible.

The slide is movable relative to a top runner in a vertical direction, as the “top runner” essentially snaps in and out of the “slide”. The top runner is claimed as being capable of being fixed to the ceiling, and the “top runner” of Karytinios is so capable, as it can be secured at the top end to a ceiling. The snap-fitting is reversible, at least to the extent that essentially any connection is reversible to some degree.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4-8 and 14-20 – are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
